Subject: NHSRC-DSPRUD Online Lecture Series on Standard Treatment Guidelines: 45th Webinar Session on 17th Oct, 2026 (3rd Saturday)

Dear Sir/Madam,

Hypertensive disorders during pregnancy remain a major public health challenge and are among the leading causes of maternal and perinatal morbidity & mortality, particularly in low- and middle-income countries. Pregnancy-induced hypertension (PIH), including pre-eclampsia and eclampsia, affects a significant proportion of pregnant women and requires timely screening, appropriate management, and referral to prevent adverse outcomes.

Anaemia during pregnancy continues to be another critical concern affecting maternal and neonatal health. Early detection and effective management at peripheral health facilities are essential for improving pregnancy outcomes and reducing preventable complications.

To enhance awareness and strengthen the capacity of healthcare providers in these important areas, the 45th session of the Standard Treatment Guidelines (STG) Webinar Series will feature expert talks on the following topics:

1. Pregnancy-Induced Hypertension: Screening, Management and Referral in the STG Framework

2. Screening and Management of Anaemia during Pregnancy at Peripheral Health Facilities

In view of the relevance of these topics to maternal healthcare services, you are requested to disseminate this information to all public healthcare facilities under your jurisdiction and encourage clinicians, nursing professionals, programme managers, and other relevant healthcare personnel to participate in the webinar.

The registration for the webinar would commence at 02:45 PM on the same day. The agenda of the session is enclosed as Annexure 'A'.
